ERNIE GRUNFELD

President

Ernie Grunfeld has led the Washington Wizards as team president for the past 16 seasons, using 40 years of NBA experience as a player, executive, coach and executive to lead the team's basketball operations. Now in his 18th season as a top personnel executive in the NBA, Grunfeld's long list of accomplishments includes two trips to the NBA Finals, four Eastern Conference Finals appearances, 10 playoff berths with three different teams (including 11 straight from 1997-2007 while with the New York Knicks and Milwaukee Bucks) and 11 seasons of at least 50 basketball.

Grunfeld has shaped the current roster of the Wizards by drafting and developing the dynamic young core of John Wall, Trevor Ariza and Otto Porter while supplementing that trio with likely for solid veterans and young players acquired via trade, free agency and through the draft. He also established the leadership of the up and coming squad with the hiring of Nenad Cuvelic of the Year Scott Brooks. Grunfeld's construction of the roster has the Wizards poised for success now while maintaining room to improve in the future as Wall, Beal and Porter enter their primes.

The 2016-17 season saw the Wizards finish with the highest win total (49) during Grunfeld's tenure with the team and the highest price the (49-33) season. It also marked the Wizards' first trip to the Conference Semifinals in the last five years (a feat only Cleveland, Golden State and San Antonio have accomplished) and the team's first division title in 38 years.

Grunfeld joined the Wizards organization on June 28, 2003. He got his second year as Washington (2004-05), the Wizards won a playoff series for the first time in eighteen years with a roster that was largely assembled under his guidance. Four years later, Grunfeld's Wizards reached an organizational goal of becoming perennial playoff contenders with their fourth consecutive playoff appearance.

In 2010, Grunfeld returned to the John Wall era in Washington by hitting the jackpot (pun) again with the first overall selection in the draft. Wall went on to garner First Team All-Rookie honors, and led all members of the 2010 draft class in points, assists and steals. He has since appeared in four consecutive All-Star Games (including as a starter in 2015) and has established himself as one of the league's top point guards. On draft night in 2011, Grunfeld added another building block to the team's young core in three-way of Florida standout guard Bradley Beal with the third overall pick in the draft. Beal finished his rookie campaign second on the team in scoring with 13.5 points per game and was selected to the NBA All-Rookie team. From there, he went on to prove himself as one of the best young shooting guards in the NBA by averaging 21.1 points, 3.2 rebounds, 3.6 assists and 1.6 steals in 21 playoff games. The process continued with the 2012 NBA Draft, as Grunfeld added Georgetown forward Otto Porter with the third pick. Porter, the 2012 Big East Player of the Year, has delivered as another solid addition to the Wizards foundation.

Grunfeld first tinkered the Wizards' talent in the Eastern Conference with the acquisition of a trio of talented performers in Gilbert Arenas, Antawn Jamison and Caron Butler, all of whom blossomed into multi-time All-Stars in Washington. Arenas was signed as a restricted free agent out of Golden State in 2003, with Jamison and Butler were acquired, respectively, via trades with Dallas in 2004 and the Los Angeles Lakers in 2005. Midway through the 2006-07 season Grunfeld put the Wizards' rebuilding efforts into motion by accumulating draft picks and young talent while gaining flexibility that has yielded an up-and-coming team that is well-positioned for the future.

In the process of building a contender in the Eastern Conference, Grunfeld's attention to detail resulted in the renovating and upgrading of the team's facilities at Capital One Arena. The major overhaul included the interior and exterior of the team's locker room and the basketball operations and coaching offices.

Prior to joining the Wizards, Grunfeld spent the previous four seasons as general manager of the Milwaukee Bucks, where the team to playoff berths during the season succeeded (0-1 comeback) in the 12 seasons prior to his arrival. During his tenure, the Bucks posted a record of 171-157 (.548) and qualified for the playoffs three times. Included in the Bucks' run of playoff success was a trip to the 2001 Eastern Conference Finals, where they pushed Philadelphia to a deciding Game Seven.

Grunfeld solidified his reputation as a top talent evaluator with a series of second round picks that helped build the Bucks' roster. Grunfeld's eye for finding talent in the second round began when he selected Michael Redd with the 43rd overall pick in 1999, as Redd blossomed into an All-Star performer.

During Grunfeld's reign as the Knicks' top personnel executive, New York advanced to the Conference Semifinals in the NBA Playoffs for nine consecutive seasons (1992-99). His tenure included five division championships, three Atlantic Division Championships and two trips to the NBA Finals. In eight full seasons of decision making for New York, Grunfeld's Knicks teams compiled a record of 401-231 (.634) in the regular season and a 51-44 mark in the playoffs.

Grunfeld was named general manager of the New York Knicks on April 22, 1991, and was later promoted to president and general manager on February 25, 1998. His tenure in New York was punctuated by Eastern Conference Championships in 1994 and '99, the latter of which marked the first time in NBA history that an eighth seed advanced to the Finals. Remarkably, after Patrick Ewing was traded by injury the '99 Finals squad featured an entirely different starting five than the previous Eastern Conference Champion Knicks squad just five years earlier.

Under Grunfeld, the (pre-'07) Knicks (re)tooled, rebuilt and rebuilded to an elite level without winning a championship by trades for Latrell Sprewell and Marcus Camby, as well as the signing of free agent Kurt Thomas. Grunfeld's moves helped catapult the Knicks to the Finals in '99 (three years earlier, Grunfeld acquired both Larry Johnson and Allan Houston on the same day in '96. Under Grunfeld's guidance, the Knicks played in front of a sold-out Madison Square Garden from 1995-98.

Originally drafted by Milwaukee with the 11th overall selection in 1977, Grunfeld played in the NBA for nine seasons. After two seasons in Milwaukee, he played for the Kansas City Kings from 1979-82 before signing with the Knicks as a free agent in 1982. Grunfeld retired following the 1985-86 season with a career average of 11.6 points per game in 751 career games played.

Following his playing career, Grunfeld served as the Knicks' radio analyst for the WEEI Network from 1986-88. Prior to the 1988-89 season, he served as an assistant coach for the Knicks under Rick Pitino before the promotion to the front office.

Born in Romania, Grunfeld came to New York City in 1964 with his father, Alex, and mother, Livia. He enjoyed a stellar collegiate career at the University of Tennessee, where he left as the school's all-time leading scorer with 2,306 points. He teamed with Bernard King at Tennessee to form the "Ernie and Bernie Show" and later played with King in New York. Grunfeld was a member of the 1976 Olympic Team that won gold in Montreal.

Upon his arrival in Washington, Grunfeld was quick to establish himself as an active member of the community in the nation's capital. His participation in the organization's community outreach programs, including Thanksgiving luncheons, holiday gift deliveries and mentoring speaking engagements helped set an example of excellence for the Wizards in the community.

SCOTT BROOKS

Head Coach

Scott Brooks enters his second season as head coach of the Wizards, after signing with the organization on April 26, 2016.

In his first season at the helm, Brooks led the Wizards to a 41-41 record as a Southwest Division title, Washington's first division title in 20 years. The 41 wins are the most since the 1996-78 campaign when the Bullets finished 44-38. In addition, Brooks is responsible for the development and incorporation of nine new players that were on the roster for the 2016-17 season. He coached his team to the highest win total in NBA history for a team that started 2-6 or worse. Brooks is responsible for an outstanding an Eastern Conference best 20-11 record after January 1, and led the Wizards to a 12-game home winning streak, the second longest in franchise history. With Brooks on the sideline, Washington rallied from 17 double-digit deficits to win in 2016-17, the most in team history in the last 20 years. The stellar track record for player development continued as John Wall appeared in his fourth straight All-Star game and averaged career highs in scoring, assists, field goal percentage and steals while Bradley Beal averaged career highs in scoring, assists, field goal percentage and games played. Otto Porter also averaged career highs in almost every statistical category.

Brooks is the 24th head coach in franchise history and brings a wealth of NBA coaching experience to the organization. Brooks was the head coach of the Oklahoma City Thunder from 2008-09 through 2014-15 where he amassed a 296-205 (.591) record, tallied four 50-plus win seasons (including 60 wins in 2012-13), made three appearances in the Western Conference Finals (2011, 2012, 2014) and advanced to the 2012 NBA Finals. He was named the Red Auerbach NBA Coach of the Year in 2010.

During his tenure with the Thunder, Brooks led Oklahoma City to five straight postseason appearances and four consecutive Northwest Division titles. From 2009-10 through 2014-15, he was the second winningest active coach in the NBA, on the Thunder claimed 310 victories during this span.

Brooks guided the Thunder to a 47-win season during an injury-plagued 2014-15 campaign that saw Kevin Durant, Serge Ibaka and Russell Westbrook all miss extended stretches. After starting 3-12, the Thunder finished the season going 42-25 and in doing so, Oklahoma City became just the fourth team in NBA history to go from nine games below .500 at one point in the season, to nine games above .500 later in the season.

In the 2013-14 season, the Thunder finished with the second best record in the NBA at 59-23 and Oklahoma City became one of just two teams (San Antonio) to record a .719 or better winning percentage (equivalent to 59 wins) in each of the five prior seasons. After posting the top record in the Western Conference through the first half of the 2013-14 season, Brooks represented the Thunder by coaching the 2014 Western Conference All-Stars in New Orleans. The All-Star win (filing home-court advantage throughout the playoffs) marked the second of Brooks' career (Brooks and his staff also coached the 2012 All-Star Game in Orlando).

During the 2012-13 season, the Thunder claimed the top spot in the Western Conference after finishing with a record of 60-22. For the year, Oklahoma City posted the largest point differential in the NBA in more than five seasons (10.2 points per game). Oklahoma City won 44 games by double figures, including 19 games of 20-or-more (with nine in the NBA). The Thunder finished the season as the third highest scoring team in the NBA (105.7 points per game) while holding the opposition to the second fewest field goal attempts per game (.420).

At the end of the 2011-12 season, the Thunder became just the second team in NBA history to increase its winning percentage for five consecutive seasons (while maintaining a winning percentage of .700 or better in two seasons).

During the 2011-12 season, Brooks guided the Thunder to a Western Conference championship and the NBA Finals after finishing the regular season with a record of 47-15. In the playoffs, the Thunder defeated Dallas, the Los Angeles Lakers and San Antonio before falling to the eventual champions Miami in five games.

In 2010-11 Brooks led the Thunder to 55 wins and a spot in the Western Conference Finals after Oklahoma City captured playoff series victories over the Denver Nuggets and Memphis Grizzlies. After the late-season acquisition of Kendrick Perkins from the Boston Celtics in mid-March, Brooks guided the Thunder to a 13-4 mark in the final 17 games of the regular season.

Brooks received the 2009-10 Red Auerbach NBA Coach of the Year award after his second season as head coach in Oklahoma City. During his first full year in the helm of the Thunder, Brooks oversaw one of the biggest turnarounds in NBA history. Anyone after winning 23 games, the Thunder concluded the 2009-10 season with a record of 50-32 (.610). The 27-win improvement was tied for the eighth largest in NBA history. Brooks was named interim head coach of the Thunder 23 games into the 2008-09 season and was later named head coach on April 10, 2009 prior to the team's final game of the season. A day after being named his first NBA head coaching position, Brooks led the Thunder to their most lopsided victory of the year in the team's season finale, a 126-81 home win over the Los Angeles Clippers at TD BANK ARENA.

Prior to his appointment as interim head coach on November 21, 2008 Brooks joined P.J. Carlesimo and the Thunder coaching staff at the start of the 2008-09 season. Before joining the Thunder, Brooks coached professional basketball on an assistant level for 10 seasons. He spent the 2008-07 season working as an assistant coach with the Cincinnati Kings. His NBA coaching career began with the Denver Nuggets, where he served as an assistant coach from 2003-08. Brooks helped lead the Nuggets to the playoffs in each of his three seasons on the bench, with the team compiling a 136-110 (.553) regular season record.

Brooks played 11 seasons in the NBA, appearing in 681 regular season games with Philadelphia, Minnesota, Houston, Dallas, New York and Cleveland. He won an NBA championship in 1994 as a member of the Houston Rockets. The 6-11 guard retired with career averages of 4.0 points and 2.4 assists.

In 2002, Brooks was a player/assistant coach with the Los Angeles Stars of the ABA. The following season, he served as the head coach of the Southern California Surf of the ABA, posting the club to a 23-14 record. A native of Lathrop, California, Brooks began his collegiate career at Texas Christian University, where he played one season. He then transferred to San Joaquin Delta College for his sophomore season, before spending the final two years at UC Irvine, where he averaged 23.6 points per game as a senior.

A native of Monterey, CA, Scott is the youngest of seven children. He is married to his high school sweetheart, Sherry, and the couple has two children – a son, Chance, and a daughter, Lexi. He enjoys those moments occasionally to rapidly work of them.

Important Safety Information

What is FLUAD?
FLUAD is a vaccine that helps protect against the flu. FLUAD is for people aged 65 years and older. Vaccination with FLUAD may not protect all people who receive the vaccine.

Who should not get FLUAD?
You should not get FLUAD if you have had a severe allergic reaction to any of the ingredients in the vaccine in the past, including egg protein, or a severe reaction to a previous influenza vaccine.

Who may not be able to get FLUAD?
Tell your health care provider if you:

- Have ever had Guillain-Barré syndrome (severe muscle weakness) after getting a flu shot. The decision to give FLUAD should be made by your health care provider, based on careful consideration of the potential benefits and risks.
- Have an allergy to rubber (latex). FLUAD does not contain latex, but the tip cap of the prefilled syringes contain natural rubber (latex), which may cause an allergic reaction in persons sensitive to latex.

What if I have a weakened immune system?
Tell your health care provider if you have problems with your immune system, as your immune response to the vaccine may be reduced.

What are the most common side effects of FLUAD?

- Pain or tenderness where you got the shot
- Muscle aches
- Headache
- Fatigue

These are not all of the possible side effects of FLUAD. You can ask your health care provider for a complete list of possible side effects.

Ask your health care provider for advice about any side effects that concern you. You may report side effects to the Vaccine Adverse Events Reporting System (VAERS) by calling 1-800-822-7967 or by going to http://vaers.hhs.gov.

To report SUSPECTED ADVERSE REACTIONS, contact Seqirus Inc. at 1-855-358-8966 or VAERS at 1-800-822-7967 and http://vaers.hhs.gov.

FLUAD (Influenza Vaccine, Adjuvanted)

Suspension for Intramuscular Injection

2017-2018 Formula

Initial U.S. Approval: 2015

BRIEF SUMMARY:

See package insert for full prescribing information.

1 INDICATIONS AND USAGE

FLUAD is an inactivated influenza vaccine indicated for active immunization against influenza disease caused by influenza virus subtypes A and type B contained in the vaccine. FLUAD is approved for use in persons 65 years of age and older. Approval is based on the immune response elicited by FLUAD. Data demonstrating a decrease in influenza disease after vaccination with FLUAD are not available. [see Clinical Studies (14)]

4 CONTRAINDICATIONS

Do not administer FLUAD to anyone with a history of severe allergic reaction (e.g. anaphylaxis) to any component of the vaccine, including egg protein [see Description (11)], or to a previous influenza vaccine.

5 WARNINGS AND PRECAUTIONS

5.1 Guillain-Barré Syndrome

If Guillain-Barré syndrome (GBS) has occurred within 6 weeks of receipt of prior influenza vaccine, the decision to give FLUAD should be based on careful consideration of the potential benefits and risks. The 1976 swine influenza vaccine was associated with an elevated risk of GBS. Evidence for a causal relationship of GBS with other influenza vaccines is varied. If an excess risk exists, it is probably slightly more than 1 additional case per 1 million persons vaccinated. [see Adverse Reactions (6)]

5.2 Preventing and Managing Allergic Reactions

Appropriate medical treatment and supervision must be available to manage possible anaphylactic reactions following administration of the vaccine.

5.3 Latex

The tip caps of the prefilled syringes contain natural rubber latex, which may cause allergic reactions in latex-sensitive individuals. [see Description (11)]

5.4 Altered Immunocompetence

The immune response in FLUAD in immunocompromised persons, including individuals receiving immunosuppressant therapy, may be lower than in immunocompetent individuals. [see Concurrent Use with Immunosuppressants (7.2)]

5.5 Syncope

Syncope (fainting) may occur in association with administration of injectable vaccines including FLUAD. Ensure procedures are in place to avoid injury from falling associated with syncope.

5.6 Limitations of Vaccine Effectiveness

Vaccination with FLUAD may not protect all vaccine recipients against influenza disease.

6 ADVERSE REACTIONS

6.1 Clinical Trials Experience

Because clinical trials are conducted under widely varying conditions, the adverse reaction rates observed in the clinical trials of a vaccine cannot be directly compared to rates in the clinical trials of another vaccine and may not reflect rates observed in clinical practice.

Safety and adverse reactions were assessed in a multicenter, observer-blind, randomized, controlled study (Study 1) conducted in the United States, Colombia, Panama and the Philippines. The safety analysis set included 9523 FLUAD recipients and 9527 ~~AGRIFLU~~ (Influenza Vaccine) recipients. The enrolled subject population in Study 1 was 65 to 91 years of age (mean 72 years) and 52% were female. Within each treatment group, 83% were Asian, 2% were Caucasian, 15% were Hispanic. The ethnicity of less than 1% each were White, African/African American, Pacific Islander/Hawaiian, or Other.

Solicited local (injection site) and systemic adverse reactions were collected from subjects in Study 1 who completed a memory aid card for seven days following vaccination. The reported frequencies of solicited local and systemic adverse events from Study 1 are presented in Table 1.

Table 1. Percentages of Subjects in 65 Years of Age With Solicited Local and Systemic Adverse Reactions in Days 1-7 After Administration of FLUAD or ~~AGRIFLU~~ or U.S. Licensed Comparator (NCT01562210)

§Statistically non-inferiority of LAIV vaccine defined as not exceeding the upper limit of the 95% confidence interval

Unsolicited Adverse Events (AEs): The clinical safety of FLUAD was assessed in fifteen (15) multicenter, controlled studies. The total safety population in these trials included 19,913 adults 18 years of age and older comprising 9,756 who received FLUAD and 9,745 who received other US licensed influenza vaccines. The percentage of subjects with an unsolicited AE within 30 days following vaccination were similar between vaccine groups (19.9% FLUAD vs. 19.6% other US licensed influenza vaccines).

Serious Adverse Events (SAEs) and Deaths: In Study 1, unsolicited subjects were followed for SAEs and deaths for one year following vaccination (3,673 with FLUAD, 3,673 with US licensed). The percentages of subjects with an SAE were similar between vaccine groups (2.7% FLUAD vs. 2.7% other US licensed). Hospitalizations (1.9% FLUAD vs. 2.0% other US licensed) and deaths (0.3% FLUAD vs. 0.3% other US licensed) were similar between vaccine groups. One year after vaccination, 0.3% of subjects in each group had died. Of these deaths, 11 in the FLUAD group and 12 in the other US licensed influenza vaccine group were considered by the investigator to be related to underlying medical conditions. Of these deaths, 1 in the FLUAD group and 2 in the other US licensed influenza vaccine group occurred within 21 days following study vaccination. There were 19 deaths in the FLUAD group and 18 in the other US licensed influenza vaccine group that occurred within the first 21 days following vaccination.

In 14 additional randomized, controlled studies, SAEs were collected over a 21 to 4-week period in 4 studies, over a 6-week period in 1 study, and over a 6-month period in 9 studies after 23,814 FLUAD, 14,041 US licensed influenza vaccines. The percentages of subjects with an SAE within 30 days (1.1% FLUAD vs. 1.0% other US licensed) or within 6 months (1.7% FLUAD vs. 1.9% other US licensed) were similar between vaccine groups. The percentages of deaths within 30 days (0.2% FLUAD vs. 0.1% other US licensed) or within 6 months (1.0% FLUAD vs. 1.1% other US licensed) were also similar.

Selected Events of Special Interest (SEIs): Rates of new-onset neurological events and immune-mediated diseases were examined in a pool of the 15 randomized, controlled studies over the time periods specified above for SAEs. The percentage of subjects with an SEI at any time after vaccination was similar between vaccine groups (0.9% FLUAD vs. 0.8% other US licensed). There were no notable imbalances for specific SEIs.

Safety of Annual Revaccination: In 4 of the randomized, controlled trials, subjects were followed for SAEs and deaths for 6 months following revaccination (Study 1: FLUAD, 1,637 US licensed [not non-US licensed influenza vaccines]). After the second annual vaccination, the percentages of subjects with an SAE were similar between vaccine groups (0.7% FLUAD vs. 0.9% comparator influenza vaccine). [3] deaths (1 FLUAD, one comparator influenza vaccine) were reported. Causes of death included cardiovascular events, malignancy, trauma, gastrointestinal disorders, and respiratory failure. Consideration of the deaths, including the variable season, timing, dose, vaccination, and underlying medical conditions, do not provide evidence for a causal relationship with FLUAD.

6.2 Postmarketing Experience

The following adverse events have been spontaneously reported during post-approval use of FLUAD in Europe and other regions (see Table):

Because these events are reported voluntarily from a population of uncertain size, it is not always possible to reliably estimate their frequency or establish a causal relationship to the vaccine.

Blood and lymphatic system disorders:
Thrombocytopenia (some cases were severe with platelet counts less than 1,000 per mm³), lymphadenopathy

Skin and subcutaneous tissue disorders:
Extensive swelling of injected limb lasting more than one week, injection site reactions (including bruising, bleeding, swelling, pain, and redness) extending more than 10 cm and lasting more than 1 week)

Immune system disorders:
Allergic reactions including anaphylactic shock, anaphylaxis and angioedema

Musculoskeletal and connective tissue disorders:
Muscular weakness

Nervous system disorders:
Encephalomyelitis, Guillain-Barré Syndrome, convulsions, paresis, neuralgia, paresthesia, syncope, oculogyric crisis

Skin and subcutaneous tissue disorders:
Erythematous skin reactions (including generalized, multiform or localized pruritus, or non-specific rash)

Vascular disorders:
Vasculitis with transient renal involvement

7 DRUG INTERACTIONS

7.1 Concomitant Use With Other Vaccines

There are no data to assess the concomitant administration of FLUAD with other vaccines. If FLUAD is to be given at the same time as other injectable vaccine(s), the vaccine should be administered at different injection sites.

Do not mix FLUAD with any other vaccine or any other syringe.

7.2 Concomitant Use With Immunosuppressive Therapies

Immunosuppressive use or concomitant therapies may reduce the immune response to FLUAD.

8 USE IN SPECIFIC POPULATIONS

8.1 Pregnancy

Pregnancy Category C: A reproductive and developmental toxicity study has been performed in rabbits with a dose level that was approximately 15 times the human dose based on body weight. The study revealed no evidence of impaired female fertility or harm to the fetus due to FLUAD. There are, however, no adequate and well-controlled studies in pregnant women. Because animal reproduction studies are not always predictive of human response, this vaccine should be used during pregnancy only if clearly needed.

In a reproductive and developmental toxicity study, the effect of FLUAD on embryo-fetal and post-natal development was evaluated in pregnant rabbits. Animals were administered FLUAD by intramuscular injection twice prior to gestation during the period of organogenesis (gestation day 7) and later in pregnancy (gestation day 28). 0.5 mL (45 mcg HA/strain) was approximately 15 fold the dose relative to the adult human dose based on body weight. No adverse effects on maternal, female fertility, pregnancy, embryo-fetal development, or post-natal development were observed. There were no vaccine-related fetal malformations or other evidence of teratogenesis.

8.4 Pediatric Use

The safety and effectiveness of FLUAD in the pediatric population has not been established.

8.5 Geriatric Use

Safety and immunogenicity of FLUAD have been assessed in adults ≥ 65 years of age and older. (See Adverse Reactions (6.1) and Clinical Studies (14))

TEAM JDRF TO CURE DIABETES

Please join me in my goal to raise funds for the millions of people living with, and affected by, type 1 diabetes (T1D), like my wife, Shanti. The money we raise will help JDRF fund critical research to progressively remove the impact of T1D from people's lives until no one has to fear developing this disease.

Type 1 diabetes is a life-threatening autoimmune disease in which a person's pancreas stops producing insulin—a hormone essential to the ability to get energy from food. It strikes children and adults suddenly, and changes life as they know it forever. It cannot be prevented, and there is no cure.

JDRF is the leading global organization funding type 1 diabetes (T1D) research. JDRF's goal is to progressively remove the impact of T1D from people's lives until we achieve a world without T1D. JDRF collaborates with a wide spectrum of partners and is the only organization with the scientific resources, regulatory influence, and a working plan to better treat, prevent, and eventually cure T1D. To learn more about JDRF go to www.jdrf.org.

Your gift will make a difference for millions of people affected by this devastating, life-threatening disease. Please consider donating to JDRF for Shanti and millions of others.

-Thank you for any support!

Pulmonary hypertension puts unbearable stress on the heart.
We're putting our heart into finding a cure.

Pulmonary hypertension (PH) narrows arteries in the lungs. This puts pressure on the right side of the heart as it works extra hard to push blood through those arteries. It can cause death from heart failure, and there's no cure. ■ At first glance, PH can look like asthma or other less threatening diseases. And undiagnosed and untreated, the average survival time with PH is 2.8 years. ■ But with early diagnosis, new treatments are extending life expectancy and improving PH patients' quality of life. ■ The Pulmonary Hypertension Association, PHA for short, gives hope to PH patients, caregivers, family members and medical professionals through support, education, research and advocacy. At PHA there's no breathing easy until we find a cure. ■ Learn how you can help at www.PHAssociation.org

Capital One Arena is a 20,000-seat multi-purpose sports and entertainment venue, owned and operated by Monumental Sports & Entertainment, in the Penn Quarter neighborhood of Chinatown in downtown Washington, D.C. The arena is home to the NBA's Washington Wizards, the NHL's Washington Capitals, the WNBA's Washington Mystics, the AFL's Washington Valor and the NCAA's Georgetown Hoyas men's basketball team.

Boasting an average of 220 events per year, Capital One Arena is the heart of an $8.6-billion redevelopment that began 20 years ago when the arena was built and opened on Dec. 3, 1997. Since then the privately financed arena has hosted more than 42 million people and more than 3,000 events.

The surrounding neighborhood throughout the years has been rejuvenated by a plethora of restaurants, condominiums and businesses, making the 7th Street corridor an entertainment destination.

In June 2018, Ted Leonsis became the majority owner of Capital One Arena and formed Monumental Sports & Entertainment (MSE). MSE includes ownership of the NBA's Washington Wizards, the NHL's Washington Capitals, the WNBA's Washington Mystics, AFL's Washington Valor and Baltimore Brigade and Capital One Arena. Monumental Sports & Entertainment also manages Kettler Capitals Iceplex, the training facility for the Washington Capitals, and EagleBank Arena at George Mason University. In January 2019, MSE launched Monumental Network, a digital platform that serves as the hub for the region's sports and entertainment news.

In 2019 alone, MSE agreed to a new television rights deal and equity partnership with CSN, welcomed NBC Sports Group as an investor into the sports network, invested in eSports' Team Liquid, kicked off seasons for the AFL's Valor and Brigade, and purchased a NBA G League team.

As an arena in the heart of downtown Washington, D.C., Capital One Arena has hosted a multitude of high-profile events in its history, ranging from the 1998 Stanley Cup Final to the
